#GEA2023

WE ARE EXCITED AND LOOKING FORWARD TO WELCOMING THE GLOBAL ENERGY SECTOR TO THE 2023 GREEN ENERGY AFRICA SUMMIT.

Africa holds some of the world's largest green energy potential, but investments in renewable energy have so far been largely concentrated in South Africa, Egypt, and Morocco.

Amidst growing needs for sustained global and private sector investments, countries like Algeria, Kenya, Angola, or Senegal have taken the lead on developing solar and wind projects. Others with vast water resources like Ethiopia, Tanzania and Mozambique are ramping up hydroelectric generation and embarking on mega dam projects. Hydrogen is also becoming part of the future: markets like Namibia, Mauritania, Egypt, and South Africa are already implementing ambitious strategies to tap renewable energy potential to produce green hydrogen.

Africa's calls for a just energy transition have also started being heard. In 2021, South Africa became the first African country to launch a Just Energy Transition Partnership (JETP) to secure an initial $8.5 billion with France, Germany, the United Kingdom, the USA, and the European Union. In 2023, Senegal became second and secured a similar agreement with the International Partners Group for an initial €2.5 billion.

However, as positive as all these developments are, they cannot hide the fact that Africa's energy poverty is growing. Across most of the continent, industries complain about the lack of reliable and affordable energy, while hundreds of millions live in the dark and almost one billion Africans have no access to clean cooking.

To address Africa's energy journey head on, GEAS is returning to Cape Town to be the platform where governments, regulators, assets developers, and investors can develop solutions for a high-energy future on the continent.

The Summit will showcase the most attractive opportunities across the solar, wind, hydropower, hydrogen, geothermal, gas, clean cooking and electric mobility industries. In doing so, it will particularly address business models and solutions that are the best fitted to address Africa's energy needs and its sustainable future.

We look forward to receiving you on the 10-11th October 2023 in the Mother City of Cape Town for two days of business, networking, dealmaking, and fun!

ENERGY INVESTMENT VILLAGE

The Energy Investment Village is a joint venture between Saldanha Bay Innovation Campus, RIIS, Anza Capital and Green Energy Africa Summit to support clean energy African tech start-ups to access international finance.

We have carefully created a programme for companies at the prototype phase (and ahead) requiring finance partners to develop their technologies. These outstanding finalists have been selected based on their ground-breaking initiatives, which aim to revolutionize the energy landscape and promote sustainable development in Africa. This platform moves Green Energy Africa Summit from the traditional concept of an event. It moves it into a trustworthy transaction platform—our mission is to drive social change through global finance in Southern African energy development.

In partnership with:

10 START-UPS. 10 INNOVATIONS. ONE VILLAGE

Expand the pipeline of African bankable clean energy projects.

Capacitate clean energy entrepreneurs to articulate their investment potential.

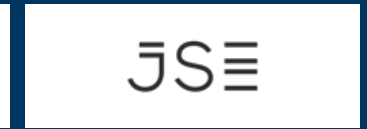

Showcase and connect innovative African clean energy entrepreneurs with investors.

Offer solutions to the continent's critical energy delivery constraints and challenges.

Energy Investment Village Partners

ENERGY INVESTMENT VILLAGE

The Energy Investment Village, is a one-day pitching event taking place at Green Energy Africa Summit.

A group of qualifying, pre-selected clean energy tech entrepreneurs and start-ups will each take to the stage, to present their projects in a short pitch to a group of highly influential investors. This high-octane, shark-tank-type event could be the place to originate your next deal.
